

Pål Stenmark, PhD

Pål Stenmark is an associate professor at Stockholm University and Lund University. Dr. Stenmark is a structural biologist and biochemist working with clostridial neurotoxins, including new members of this growing family of toxins. Dr. Stenmarks laboratory studies the toxins using a wide variety of methods, including X-ray crystallography and single particle cryo-EM, to understand the toxins basic mechanisms and to improve their therapeutic properties through protein engineering.